Foreword

As part of the comprehensive revision of curriculum from pre-primary to the Higher Secondary sector, new textbooks have been developed for Std. XI and Std XII during the years 2014-15 and 2015-16 respectively. Evaluation activities should go hand in hand with the new curriculum. Real learning takes place by constructing knowledge through various learning processes.

In a constructive classroom, learners have opportunities to engage in a number of activities in which a range of attributes can be developed. The same activities provide the learner with scope for assessing the development of these attributes. Hence there has been a shift from assessing the products of learning to the process of learning. Anyhow it is to be noted that term end assessment is a part of continuous and comprehensive evaluation.

The main objective of this book is to help the learners to face the public examination with confidence. In this context, questions from all chapters of each subject of Std. XII have been developed along with the scoring indicators. Hope that this question bank titled “Edumate” will be helpful to learners as well as teachers.

Your comments and suggestions are welcome and will assist us in improving the content of this book.

Wish you all the best.

The more disturbing fact about the plight of women in India is that the merits of learning and labour are not enjoyed by all. The deepest our analysis, the clearer the picture becomes. Rural women are lesser in focus when we study the impact of education among women. The great trouble is that it is really hard to bring the rural, semi-rural, urban and semi-urban women under the same umbrella.

What Women Wanted
Long before your grandma was young
Women's freedom was a song not yet sung
Men mostly said that women didn't get it
If you gave them a job they just forget it
They said a woman's job was cleaning house
And staying quiet as a nurse
But many women said we want more
We like our homes, but we want more than chores
We want the right to earn real pay
We work just as hard as men each day
And more than anything, please note
We want to have the right to vote
And after the matches and protests were done
All of that is just what they won

And women go to work and always do their best,

Sad women buy groceries on the way home,
Make phone calls to hear someone's voice,
They are faithful to their promises.

Sad women comfort others and say "everything will be okay",

The year 1984 has come and gone, but George Orwell's prophetic, nightmarish vision in 1949 of the world we were becoming is timelier than ever. 1984 is still the great modern classic of 'negative utopia' - a startlingly original and haunting novel that creates an imaginary world that is completely convincing, from the first sentence to the last for words. No one can deny that novels hold the imagination of whole generations.

- William Blake

I was angry with my friend:

I was angry with my foe:
I told it not, my wrath did grow.
And I watered it in fears,
Night and morning with my tears;
And I sunned it with smiles,
And with soft deceitful wiles.
And it grew both day and night,
Till it bore an apple bright.
And my foe beheld it shine.
And he knew that it was mine,
And into my garden stole
When the night had veiled the pole;
In the morning glad I see
My foe outstretched beneath the tree.

Qn. 12. Read the following passage and choose the right option from the given list of options.

Is it time to separate the English from the English language? Linguist David Graddol predicts that by next decade Indians will champion the expansion of the English language empire. He reasons that trajectory of English teaching in India tends to move away from the elitist forms of learning and will be a major factor in the spread of the language.

When the white rulers left, the brown sahibs took over; the Indian state spoke in English. However there has been a change in the character of the language. It is slowly being stripped of its natural essence. What we have now is the 'chutneyfication' of the language. The polity or policy is responsible for this. In the days of the empire, English was not just a language but more a culture. Now English has been absorbed as another dialect spoken in the great Indian language bazaar. For instance HINGLISH!

English is the gateway to economic prosperity. It is the language of the global migrant and the password to knowledge economy. Let us not dilute the language into something insignificant!

a. When the British were ruling us:
   (a) English was in its natural essence
   (b) English wasn't spoken by us
   (c) they did not attach much importance to the spread of the language
   (d) they too spoke the native language of India

b. The reason for the language losing its natural odour can be attributed to
   (a) the British arrogance
   (b) the Indian polity
   (c) the brown sahib's domination
   (d) none of the above

Qn.8. Read the passage given carefully.

It is a long time since slavery has been a controversial issue. It was abolished in many countries a long time ago. However, an international conference on racism has raised the topic once more.

The original purpose of the conference, which took place in Durban and which was attended by 166 countries, was to plan a global strategy to stamp out racial prejudice. However, delegates from some of the African countries decided to raise the issue of slavery and this became a central theme.

The African countries were seeking an official apology from American and European nations which had taken part in the slave trade. Some of them wanted to establish that slavery was a crime against humanity. The European nations refused to agree to this wording, feeling that doing so might lead to demands for compensation and many law suits. Some African countries suggested that the slave-trading nations and colonial countries should make restitution by giving financial assistance to African recovery programmes.

It is unfortunate that this discussion over slavery should have overshadowed the original topic of the conference. Slavery is obviously an important issue but it lies in history. Racism is very much in the present and it is causing a great deal of suffering.

After reading the passage pick out the right option from the list of options given in each question. Write the correct option in your answer sheet.

(a) The purpose of the conference in Durban was to discuss:
   (i) Slave trade
   (ii) Global warming
   (iii) Economic recession
   (iv) Racism

(b) The phrase 'slavery was a crime against humanity' denotes:
   (i) exploitation of a human being by a human being
   (ii) prejudice
   (iii) persecution
   (iv) none of the above

(c) What is the reason for the conflict between European and African countries?

(d) How are racism and slavery viewed in the paragraph?
